"MA" FERGUSON PARDONS 32 CONVICTS

Austin, Tex., Dec. 22 (A.P.).—A gift of freedom will be found in the Christmas stockings of 32 Texas prisoners, as the result of clemency extended today by Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson. Most of those pardoned, the Governor said, were needed at home to support their wives and dependent children.

SCHULTE SEEKS FRENCH TOBACCO MONOPOLY

Paris, Dec. 22 (A.P.).—The David A. Schulte Tobacco Co. of the United States, through a representative here, has informed the government that it is ready to take over the tobacco monopoly in France. The amount to be paid by the government is not made public.

PUT FEET ON RAIL, LOSES LIFE

Manchester, N. H., Dec. 22 (A.P.)—George Boles, 42, of Londonderry, N. H., whose legs were cut off by a Manchester and Derry electric car in Londonderry, died today. He had been walking on the tracks and the railway reports he was lying along the right of way with his feet hanging over one rail when the car struck him.

At Crime, You Can't Win
Trouble in Foreign Lands
A Socialist Tory
Sliding and Slipping

—By Arthur Brisbane—

(Copyright, 1925, by Star Company)

WAR, WHICH IS wholesale crime, theft and highway robbery, retail crime, do not pay. European countries have had their war, now comes their headache.

Edward F. Keller, famous in crime ten years ago, recently let out of prison, went to work in a bank, stole $13,000, took it in a taxicab and was found dead. The doctor said fear killed him. Crime doesn't pay, or, as the striking anti-crime posters say, "You can't win."

IT IS A GOOD THING this country kept out of those Eastern mandates. We should have had nothing but trouble. The British, at least, got with their assorted responsibilities some of the most valuable oil lands in Asia. But the King of Hedjaz, named Ali, British made, and put in charge of British mandate territory, resigns. A rebel who objects to Britain at the top. British prestige is damaged. It's a good thing to mind your own business if you can, even if you have to give up the pleasure of stealing somebody else's oil wells.

JAPAN ALSO has troubles in other lands, where, like our good British friends, she likes to make a few honest yen.

Quietly and unobtrusively, with Japanese courtesy, the Mikado's troops have occupied Mukden. China rebels, and may boycott Japan's goods.

BRITISH CONSERVATIVES who have a British Prime Minister in Mr. Baldwin, also have what they call a "rank Socialist" in that same Mr. Baldwin.

British statesmen are statesmen, not politicians, and they think ahead.

Under the Baldwin plan British Conservatives will have to pay in taxes fifteen million dollars a year to 230,000 British widows.

In addition, the unfortunate British Conservatives must supply pensions for 150,000 children that have no fathers, and fifteen thousand orphans that have neither fathers nor mothers.

NO WONDER Baldwin is called a Socialist.

You can imagine what our best financial minds would say if anybody wanted to pension widowed American mothers at the national expense, merely because those mothers bring up children that will do the work of the nation in the future.

THIS NATION is slowly sliding and slipping, pushed by international finance into the World Court and on its way to the League of Nations. If we really need to diminish our prosperity and get rid of our accumulation of gold, that will help.

Extremely old-fashioned is the

REPUBLICAN LEADER ACCUSED OF TAKING BIG COTTON PROFITS

Washington, Dec. 22 (A.P.).—Further impetus was given the Democratic movement for revision of the tariff with the introduction of a resolution today by Representative Oldfield of Arkansas, chairman of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, calling for an investigation of the cotton schedules.

The Democratic whip already has asked for repeal of the duty on coal imported from Canada. He said that his resolution today was prompted by the situation in New England, where profits in the textile industry were increasing while wages paid employes were decreasing.

He cited as a "striking example" the "earnings of the four cotton mills, of which Chairman William M. Butler of the Republican National Commitee, is president," and asked that a special committee of five members of the House be appointed to look into the situation.

LEBLANC GIRL WOOED BY 'UNKNOWN SUITOR'

Leominster, Dec. 22.—Lena Le Blanc was the object of devoted and silent admiration on the part of a young man from a neighboring community.

She was entirely unaware of this admiration, according to those who best knew her, but withal it may have been the element which brought about her death. The feeling still persists that Lena was slain and her body cast into Leominster Lake to cover up the crime.

Today State Detective Robert E. Molt of Worcester is here working on the mystery. He was among those attending the funeral services for the victim, which were held today from her home.

It is possible the age-old theory that a slayer often returns to his victim's bier may have prompted him to visit St. Cecilia's Church

WETS LOSE, 139 TO 17, IN FIRST TEST VOTE

Washington, Dec. 22 (A.P.).—In the first showdown on prohibition this session, House drys today swept aside by a vote of 139 to 17 a proposal to restrict the use of funds for the purchase of liquor as evidence.

The proposal was in the form of an appropriation bill amendment and would have prohibited resort to "fraud, deceit or falsehood," in the use of any of the $750,000 set aside by the bill for buying evidence.

The bill was finally passed without any amendments.

Speaking in favor of the amendment Representative Tucker, Democrat, Virginia, declared the present practices of prohibition agents were based upon principles that lacked "an American tinge."

Although he had been a dry throughout the long prohibition

POLICE GIVE BENTON NEW CASES IN PROBE OF 'JAIL DODGING'

Ninety-one criminal cases which the Boston police consider were improperly handled in the course of prosecution in Suffolk County were reported to Attorney-General Benton today by Superintendent of Police Crowley and Police Commissioner Wilson.

This report was made at the Attorney-General's request as a result of the controversy started by Registrar Goodwin in charging that offenders were escaping punishment in the Suffolk County courts.

Goodwin, himself, had previously reported thirty-one cases.

The Attorney-General said that a few of Goodwin's cases are included

CHARGES FATHER TRIED TO POISON OWN BABY

To be only four months in this big world and yet to be exhibited at the bar of justice as the intended victim of an alleged attempt at murder is a tough break, but Victoria Demiller took it like a little lady out in Roxbury today.

And a bit more difficult is it to have to face one's own father, even if one doesn't realize that daddy is the accused against his child. But she took that like a little lady, too, with hardly a coo to mark her perturbation.

Andres Demiller, twenty-six, said to be a self-confessed German army deserter, tried to poison Victoria at their home, No. 18 Dacia street, Roxbury, police charge.

It is alleged mercury was placed in the baby's milk when Demiller arrived home in a rage Sunday night.

In the morning Mrs. Demiller, a Boston girl, noticed the milk appeared blue and spoke to her husband about it. Then, it is alleged, he wrested the bottle from her hands, emptied it into the sink and hurled it out of the window.

But police obtained some of the fluid and had it analyzed.

In court today Demiller pleaded not guilty to attempted murder and was held in $25,000 until December 31.

ker, Jr., the Governor's son.

Tomorrow, at noontime, between 12 and 1 o'clock, these and many other notables will sell the Evening American for the Good Fellow Fund that means Christmas to hundreds of families and thousands of children.

You can help by buying a paper. Pay what you wish for your paper—2 cents, 5 cents, 10 cents, a dollar, five dollars, ten dollars—or what is loose in your pockets!

The more you pay the greater the Good Fellow Fund swells and the more persons and families will be made happy on Christmas Day.

There will be eight stations throughout the city where the papers will be sold by these glorified and big-hearted "newsboys."

Mayor Curley will be a newsboy at the entrance to the Park street subway, and you can hear the Mayor's musical bass voice even above the clump of the flivvers in Tremont street.

Mayor Curley's "stand" will be known as Stand No. 1.

At Stand No. 2 will be Fire Commissioner Glynn, the man that stands at anybody's call to do a good deed. He will be at Washington and Summer streets.

A high police official will sell at Stand No. 3 in Dewey square.

The Governor's son, Alvan, Jr., will sell at Washington and Boylston streets—Stand No. 4.

At Stand No. 5, Boylston and Tremont streets, will be a fire chief.

Stand No. 6, at Stuart and Tremont streets, will be held down by an officer of the Kiwanis Club; Stand No. 7, at Newspaper row, by an officer of the Rotary Club, and Stand No. 8, Scollay square, by an official of the Lions Club.

Buy a Boston Evening American—and be a Good Fellow!

And while it's on your mind, turn to Page 1, second section, and see what "Good Fellows" are doing to make it a Merry Christmas for the needy.

HOSPITAL AND DOCTOR ARE ACCUSED

of her death, as they should have, if it was a case of suicide.

Medical Examiner David C. Dow reported that the girl took her own life with bichloride of mercury, and disappointment in love was set as the motive.

Today her mother, at her Park street home, denied that the girl was a suicide and asserted that she would seek to have the medical examiner delve deeper into the case.

The nurse, said her mother, was at a theatre on December 1 with her sixteen-year-old sister, Margaret, and complained of feeling ill after returning home.

The two called on a doctor and Caroline said she had taken mercury by mistake. He treated her for five hours and took her home.

Caroline begged the physician not to tell the mother she had taken poison, but the next day the nurse's condition became so serious that she was removed to the Cambridge City Hospital.

A week later the mother said she visited the hospital, found that Caroline had suffered a hemorrhage and was calling for water, but nobody was in attendance. She died on December 14.

"Caroline was not a suicide," declared the mother today. "She died as result of taking poison by mistake."

ACCUSES DOCTOR.

Mrs. Meyers charged bitterly that the doctor who attended the girl was neglectful in not telling of the treatments he gave her the first night and she charged the hospital with neglect in its treatment of Caroline.

"Caroline had but one love affair," said Mrs. Meyers in telling of the girl's disappointment in love. "That was with Collie MacEacheren of Somerville, whom she met at Charlottetown, P. E. I., five years ago.

"But one day I was attending church services in Charlottetown with Caroline when Collie entered with another girl, and Caroline dropped her prayer book and slumped in her seat in a daze.

"After the services she disappeared and was found standing at the edge of the wharf, still dazed. I took her home, but since then she had been melancholy over Collie's jilting her.

"He was the sheik of Prince Edward Island, and when Caroline came home one day and said she had met Collie in Boston and had talked with him, I forbade her bringing him to the house after what he had done."

PLANNED TO WED.

For the past year, according to the mother, Caroline had been keeping company with Ernest E. Duffy of Austin street, Cambridge, widower with two children, who live with relatives in Charlottetown. They had planned to be married shortly, she said.

Duffy is broken-hearted over the death of the nurse and he was the only mourner at the grave except the mother and the three sisters and two brothers.

In his defense today Collie denied having seen Caroline at all lately, but admitted knowing her well in 1920.

He was visibly shocked to learn of her death, but recovered quickly and said laughingly to the reporter that he was just returning home from a "date" with another girl.

Collie denied having promised to marry Caroline or any other girl, although Caroline intimated to her mother that they had been engaged in 1920.

sey's physician, also were at the bedside when the end came.

Mr. Munsey retained his faculties until the final relapse. He had requested that his sister, Mrs. John M. Hyde, of St. Petersburg, Fla., not be sent for because of her great age and weakened condition.

Funeral services will be held Thursday morning at 10 o'clock at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

STARTED ON $40.

Frank Munsey was born in the little town of Mercer, Me., on Aug. 21, 1854. He left school to work in the country store, then went to a telegraph office and later was sent to Augusta as an operator.

Gradually the publishing germ entered his blood, but his elaborate plans for a magazine did not appeal to men of money. Finally a stock broker agreed to supply $2,500 and Munsey came to New York. He had $40 when he arrived in the Winter of 1882. He engaged an office and invested his capital in an $8 table, a couple of cheap chairs, some pens and a bottle of ink.

THEN HE MADE GOOD.

Four years later, reviewing his finances, Munsey knew that he owed $16,000. But readers were beginning to come into the Argosy. In five months he spent $95,000 advertising the magazine and distributed 11,500,000 sample copies of the Argosy. Then he had arrived.

Forty years later Frank Munsey had become one of the foremost publishers in the United States, numbering his newspapers and magazines by the score and his wealth by millions.

Too Little Room for All Coal Vessels

So much coal is arriving from domestic and foreign ports that steamers are forced to anchor in the stream awaiting their chances of approaching the discharging berths.

The British steamer Lornaston, Captain Barron, is at anchor off Bird Island flats with 4,562 tons of Scotch anthracite cobbles and 7,550 tons of gas coke. She has been at anchor since Monday and will probably have to remain where she is until Saturday.

Within the next forty-eight hours several other large cargoes are expected.

city and Haverhill. He said a young man, out of breath and apparently nervous, had boarded the Haverhill-bound street-car he was riding in and asked him how far it was to Haverhill. He drew a handkerchief from his pocket and the movement showed a revolver sticking from his belt.

The gun and the man's nervousness and haste made the citizen suspicious and he got off the car and telephoned local police headquarters.

Inspector William Heffernan leaped into a fast automobile, outstripped the trolley and waited for it in Haverhill. He saw the man who answered the description given by the citizen and also by Miss Voisin. The inspector arrested the man and found on his person besides the gun, $342 in bills and $74.60 in silver, just the amount taken from Miss Voisin.

The man gave the name Carmello Crescimano of No. 102 Common street, this city. He was brought here and will face court tomorrow.

LE BLANC GIRL HAD SECRET SWEETHEART

while the girl's funeral mass was being read. At all events the detective was there and apparently watching closely for any suspicious mourners.

Following the services he actively took up the task of investigation. He had heard the story of the unknown love affair. Further, he had heard that while Lena apparently did not know of her secret suitor's existence there were others who did.

And among those to be questioned will be a number who knew of the strange one-sided romance.

Detective Molt visited the scene at Leominster Park Lake, where Lena's body was found in eight inches of water Saturday night. He later returned to Leominster where, in the office of Chief of Police Michael Conlon, he interviewed witnesses.

Lena's father, Jean LeBlanc, was among those called in, as was Ernest Williams, her sweetheart, whom she was to have married in February. Williams accompanied her on a ride the night before she disappeared.

While some of the investigating authorities still cling to the theory of suicide there are other elements that are demanding close investigation.

STICKS TO SUICIDE THEORY.

Young Williams and the girl's father were both questioned closely in regard to the probability of "another man" in the case. The police are eager to know if the name of a "young man from Gardner" was ever mentioned by the dead girl.

Leominster continues to be riled over the situation. In French circles there is indignation against Medical Examiner Sidney Woodworth, the aged Fitchburg physician who first refused to perform an autopsy and then did perform one, but only after the girl's father had paid $50 to have it performed.

This money was subsequently returned by order of District Attorney Baker of Worcester county.

Although he cannot explain how the girl could first take her life and then topple into the pond, District Attorney Baker today still stuck stubbornly to the theory of suicide.

"The medical examiner (Dr. Woodward) made a bad botch of this job," he said. "He first declared it a death by drowning. Next he said it wasn't, and now he doesn't know what caused the death.

"It is my opinion that some powerful, quick acting poison will be found in the girl's stomach. If it is not, I'll join hands with the father and sift the case to the bottom."

In the meantime everything hinges on the report of the Harvard scientists who are examining the vital organs of the girl in order to ascertain the cause of her death.

CLEW IN MEDFORD TO N. Y. CHINATOWN GIRL MYSTERY

Search for pretty Julia Vetterlein, nineteen years old, of Brooklyn, N. Y., who was swallowed up in New York's Chinatown, extended today to Medford. A letter written by the girl to Mrs. Yetta Schmansky, housekeeper for Sing Foo, New York Chinese art student, and mailed in Medford, was described to the New York authorities by Mrs. Schmansky. In the letter, the housekeeper said Julia wrote that she feared her Chinese friends would murder her because her mother wished her to marry a white man, and that she did not love the white man anyway. Mrs. Schmansky says she destroyed the letter.

$1,624,000,000 Is U. S. Tribute to Lady Nicotine

Washington, Dec. 22 (I.N.S.).—Lady Nicotine's biggest year ever is 1925.

Smokers of the United States have paid $1,624,000,000 for cigars, cigarettes, tobacco and snuff this year, as shown in internal revenue figures.

Cigarette consumption for the year will reach 80,000,000,000, about 12,000,000,000 more than last year. More than 7,200,000,000 cigars were smoked. Smoking and chewing tobacco consumed amounted to 328,000,000 pounds and, although the use of snuff is not prevalent, the country got away with 36,396,000 pounds.

controversy, Representative Tucker said he realized that some of the things now being done in enforcing the law did more harm than good.

He referred particularly to the case in which a prohibition agent spent nearly $1,000, partly for purchase of liquor in securing evidence against two employes at the Mayflower Hotel here.

"Philosophers and ministers are wondering what has happened to the youth of the country since the war," he continnued. "Incidents like the Mayflower case are going on, and they are responsible for creating the character of the young.

"It isn't a question what you think of prohibition. It is a question of whether lying, stealing and cheating are necessary to enforce the laws."

Representative Blanton, Democrat of Texas, assailed the amendment and said it is the "higher ups in the government who are making a farce of prohibition."

"Don't put the enforcement of prohibition," he said, "in the hands of a man whose finances are involved in enforcement."

Representative Barkley, Democrat, of Kentucky, expressed surprise that "some members are showing such tender solicitude for the bootleggers rather than for officers trying to enforce the law."

BUTLER QUITS MARINES, BUT MAYOR BALKS

Philadelphia, Dec. 22 (A.P.).—Brigadier General Smedley D. Butler today announced that he had resigned from the marine corps to remain in Philadelphia as director of public safety, and an hour later Mayor Kendrick made it known that he would not accept the general in the position "as a resigned officer of the Marine Corps."

The General announced his resignation today before he came to his office. He said that he had sent it to Washington last night.

Word of his action preceded him to City Hall and when he reached there he found a message summoning him to the Mayor's office.

General Butler was accompanied to the Mayor's conference by George D. Elliott, Assistant Director of Safety and slated some time ago to succeed Butler if he returned to the Marines.

He had not been in the room more than three minutes when he came out with the remark, "I've been dismissed by the Mayor. Now we're out in the open."

General Butler was angry.

"That's what I get when I'm willing to make the greatest sacrifice of my career to stay here," he exclaimed later.

Mayor Kendrick this afternoon declared that he told Butler he did not want him in his Cabinet as a resigned officer because he felt that any other action on his part would be misunderstood by President Coolidge, who has repeatedly refused to extend the general's leave of absence.

HOLDUP VICTIM YELLS; 1 SUSPECT HELD, 3 FLEE

Caught after a chase in which three alleged accomplices escaped, Samuel Pallazola of North street, North End, was arrested today by Policemen Perelli, Sullivan and O'Brien of Hanover street station, charged with assaulting Ernest Conti of Hanover street, and robbing him of $18.

Pallazola was held in $10,000 bail in municipal court.

WORKS TO GET HOLD OF BIG IDEA

John D.'s Grandson, Not Asked to Own Home, Is in Melrose at Chase Home

With a spare sock all ready to hang at the fireplace Christmas eve, John Rockefeller Prentice, grandson and frowned-upon scion of "Oil John," is at the home of Frances Perley Howard's uncle in Melrose for the holidays.

If Santa Claus is coming to the working Yale student, whose romance with Frances has been denied, then the old saint must come to Melrose and the home of her uncle, Francis P. Chase.

It is known that young Prentice is there, somewhere behind the blinds, but he denied himself today to further publicity or any visitors.

If there is no romance between them that must not be taken as prima facie evidence that John Rockefeller Prentice is a hater of women. Far be it from that.

"You mustn't think John is a woman-hater. He isn't. I think he likes girls. He always seemed to be glad to be with me—and mother and Mary.

"He's really a sociable boy, but he lacked the time and money for social activity. He was awfully busy, working all day and studying at night.

With careful reticence, Miss Howard discussed the youth's strained relations with his father and commented wisely:

"I think that probably they misunderstood each other. I know that John's father has never invited him home for Christmas since their dispute when John left Yale. No overtures were ever made to him.

"But he adores his mother. She is a dear. He would do anything for her. I feel that Mrs. Prentice encouraged him to return to Yale and finish. I know that he wrote to her frequently."

$2,927 GONE AS BOY VANISHES

A police alarm for the arrest of Joseph Usavitch, sixteen years old, of East Dedham, was flashed throughout New England following the discovery today of a theft of $2,927 from the Caesar-Misch Company, clothiers, of Providence.

Usavitch was an errand boy in the Providence store. The money was taken from a desk in which Miss Bertha Crown, a cashier, had locked it over night, and Usavitch was found to be missing at the same time.

Investigation disclosed he was working under an assumed name, having given his name as Joseph Duggan when he applied for employment several months ago, the police said. The police assert also that while he gave his Providence address as Attwell avenue, he was in reality living in Mary avenue, East Providence.

Young Usavitch lives in Harding terrace, East Dedham. He is not yet charged with the theft.

SALARY BOOSTS FOR 17 CITY EMPLOYES

Salary increases granted Boston election commissioners and sealers of weights and measures by the City Council went into effect today without the approval of Mayor Curley.

The Mayor stated he felt those given the increases were entitled to them, but he could not approve formally because of his veto of the plan for a general increase for other department heads.

The time limit for his signature expired today and the increases automatically went into effect. Those affected are:

Chairman Burlen of the elections board, increased from $5,000 to $6,000 and his three associates, $4000 to $5,000 each.

Sealer of Weights and Measures James A. Sweeney, $3,500 to $4,500, deputy sealer $2,300 to $3,000 and seven other sealers $2,200 to $2,800.

$675,000 GIFT TO WORKERS HAS A STRING ON IT

A Christmas present to 4,800 city employes of a 50-cent increase in salary per day was made today by Mayor Curley.

The group affected includes laborers, janitors, mechanics and mechanics' helpers who now receive $4.50 per day.

Should the increase be approved by Mayor Nichols, when he comes to pass on the municipal budget, it will cost the city some $675,000.

BIG RUM RING SUSPECTS HELD FOR HEARING

Alleged to be the leaders of one of the largest rum-rings in Massachusetts, five men were arraigned today in Salem court and held for breaking and entering and larceny of $2000 in pre-war liquors from the Hamilton mansion of Frank C. Rice, Peabody leather merchant, on Feb. 16 last.

They were Frank "Tank" Sheehan, Lawrence Greenleaf, Sidney Stevens and James Letts, all of Lynn, and Kenneth Donovan of Salem and Middleton.

The theft charged was only one of many that the police hope to pin upon the men. The authorities also declare that in their operations, the alleged rum runners and hi-jackers were aided by a pretty, twenty-six-year-old Lynn brunette.

She is said to have paved the way for robberies by getting work in the home of prospective victims.

Police know her identity, have had her once on the grill and intend to question her a second time.

Sheehan, Greenleaf and Stevens were held in $6,000 each today for a hearing on December 29, while bail for Letts and Donovan was fixed at $1,000 each.

Sheehan and Greenleaf were then arrested for the Lawrence police on a warrant. Coincidentally, the arresting officer was Patrolman Francis J. Lawlor, recently a candidate for Mayor of Lynn. Sheehan and Greenleaf were members of his campaign committee.

The charge they face at Lawrence tomorrow is larceny of $65 from Phillip Levine of Manchester, N. H. Levine complained that he paid the pair for alcohol that turned out to be water.

CHRISTMAS WEATHER FORECAST DOUBTFUL

Whether Boston and New England will have a green or a white Christmas depends on the whim of a storm hovering undecided over the western section of the country.

The storm, in the opinion of the weather sharp, doesn't know which way to turn, and this vagary will determine whether we have an old fashioned Christmas or an ultra modern one.

True there were snow flurries in northern Maine early today, but they were not harbingers of any real storm.

At 10 o'clock the mercury stood at 46, a new high mark for the past several days.

FISH PRICES HIT DOWNWARD GRADE

Cape Cod "turkey" and other forms of sea food continued to pour into the Fish Pier today with the result prices took a big tumble. Almost 500,000 pounds of fresh fish sent large cod down to 7 and 7½ the pound, with market cod at 5½ to 6; haddock 7½ to 8; pollock 5 to 6; hake 8½ to 9, and cusk 5½ to 6. The schooner Lark from Le Have with 97,000 pounds was high liner of the fleet.

Burglar Battles Woman; Escapes Minus Shoes

Worcester, Dec. 22 (A.P.).—As evidence of a battle with a [illegible] burglar at her home here early today, Mrs. J. Denison Kenyon turned over to the police a section of the intruder's coat, ripped from his back, also a pair of wet shoes he had left on the radiator to dry while he [illegible] footed through the house in his search for valuables.

The man fought off Mrs. Kenyon and leaped through a window in his stocking feet. He got away with a watch.

ARTHUR BLOOD, LYNN MARKET MAN, DEAD

Arthur L. Blood, millionaire and treasurer of the J. H. Blood Company, operating markets in Lynn, Salem and Malden, died today at his home, No. 31 Humphrey street, Swampscott, from a cerebral hemorrhage.

Mr. Blood had been ill for several months. He was sixty-one years old and born in Lynn.

Two score years ago he was one of the founders of the Blood Markets, and with him were associated two brothers, E. H. and C. O. Blood, both of whom survive.

CALL OFF TRIP TO N. H. FOR WEDDING

Parental objections to the marriage of Miss Mary A. Gatchell of No. 26 Highland avenue, Everett, to [illegible] C. Waddle of No. 152 Upland road, Cambridge, have been overcome and the wedding will be performed next Saturday by the Rev. George E. Waddle, father of the groom-to-be.

The couple filed their original marriage intentions in Nashua, N. H., and planned to wed there in order to avoid expected family opposition to the match.

Today, however, the Rev. Mr. Waddle, who is pastor of the First Baptist Church of the Nazarene in Cambridge, stated that he would wed the couple upon the expiration of the requisite five days after filing their intentions here have elapsed. The Rev. Mr. Waddle stated that he was opposed to a runaway match and secured a revocation of the New Hampshire intention on the grounds that his son was under twenty-one. He is willing, he said, to sanction the wedding as long as it is performed in a less romantic fashion.

'ELOPERS' DECIDE TO WED AT HOME

Miss Mary A. Gatchell, Boston phone operator who had planned elopement to New Hampshire with minister's son. Now the couple have decided to remain at home for the wedding ceremony, which will be performed by the father of the bridegroom-elect.

ONE WORD MAY GIVE OR TAKE A FORTUNE

The fight for the $500,000 fortune of [illegible] Beckwith, which opens in Providence next Monday, hinges on the legal definition of the word "children." Does "children" include those born out of wedlock?

[illegible] Beckwith, wealthy [illegible] woman who died the mother of a baby whose father is unknown, was bequeathed a trust fund of $500,000 by her father, William L. Beckwith. On her death the principal of this fund, under the father's will, was to go to her "children."

Noah Webster says that in law the word "child" means a "legitimate offspring."

Standard Dictionary goes a step farther. It says that in law the word "child" means "strictly a legitimate son or daughter. But sometimes in wills it includes an illegitimate son or daughter."

If the little Beckwith baby is legally adjudged a "child" then he becomes heir to the fortune, but if his illegitimacy precludes him from the category of "children," then the estate reverts to other relatives of Miss Beckwith, principally Mary H., Ellen M. and James L. Anthony of Providence, her cousins.

Before her death Miss Beckwith stated that Lawrence Beals, automobile racer, was father of the child. Beals, in his Framingham home, denies this, and says the statement was only the act of a spiteful woman who was jealous because he had married.

STORM HALTS SHIPPING IN AND OUT OF BOSTON

The storm has caused some delay to shipping in and out of Boston. The steamer Brandon, for Portland with freight, got outside the Graves when Captain Strout found the weather so heavy he decided to return to port. Other ships were held back by the elements. At the piers the loading and unloading of ships was halted by the rain. One ship thus affected is the British steamer Wray Castle from Oriental ports with a large and valuable cargo, including the greatest shipment of raw rubber ever brought to Boston in a single vessel. The loading of the Leyland line freighter Caledonian, which will take on 8,000 barrels of apples and much general cargo, was also held up.

PRESIDENT GARFIELD'S DAUGHTER WEDS TONIGHT

Williamstown, Dec. 22 (I.N.S.).—Miss Lucretia Garfield, daughter of Dr. Harry A. Garfield, president of Williams College, and Mrs. Garfield, and granddaughter of James Abram Garfield, twentieth President of the United States, will be married tonight to Professor John Preston Comer of the Williams College faculty. The ceremony will take place at the President's house.

SUBWAY CARS HALTED BY DEFECTIVE SWITCH

Outbound traffic at the Boylston street station of the subway was delayed for some minutes today by a defective switch, but inbound folk on their way to business were not delayed. An outbound South Boston trolley was the first to encounter the switch that didn't function, and in a short space of time a long train of cars were stalled in the rear of the South Boston trolley.

JURY BREAKS UP ARGUMENT BY NEW BILLS

In the midst of [illegible] argument by defense counsel aimed at having the [illegible] "graft" indictments set aside [illegible] East Cambridge today, the grand jury unexpectedly brought in an entire new set of indictments against the same eleven city officials, and charging them with the same [illegible] conspiracy.

The returning of the new indictments [illegible] demanding [illegible] argument against the [illegible] procedure.

Judge [illegible] ruled that the new indictments [illegible] the original ones and [illegible] arguments of the defendants against the old ones. The court [illegible] the last indictments on the ground that W. J. [illegible] presented the evidence to the Grand Jury was not a legally appointed special assistant district attorney.

The defendants, [illegible] of John J. [illegible] were given until January 4 to file pleas against the new set of indictments.

Counsel [illegible] the jurors were only in session [illegible] today, they must have [illegible] evidence previously [illegible]. They were [illegible] a transcript of the proceedings.

O'Brien Hopes Goodwin Likes the Latest Verdict

District Attorney O'Brien suggested today that Registrar of Motor Vehicles Goodwin ought to be silent, in view of the sentences given the "touring bandits," while Goodwin, not having heard of the prosecutor's suggestion, announced a truce in the verbal warfare for twenty-four hours.

Goodwin limited himself to a defence of his son, Carl D. Goodwin, in commenting on the latter's conviction on a charge of assault in Suffolk Superior Court.

"Goodwin talks about everything and of course we [illegible] his expert opinion on the [illegible] achievement of the Suffolk county courts," said O'Brien. "But I should think he would remain quiet after sentence of twelve to twenty years meted out to Walsh, Godling and Mullen and the sending of Roger to an asylum.

"He doesn't seem to have much to talk about this time, does he?"

"I see that if I am not in the limelight, my [illegible]," said Goodwin. "Well, I would much rather see him fighting his own battles than on the other side shouting 'Help, police,' and prosecuting the other fellow."

Young Goodwin was found guilty of punching Lawrence Jordan of Winthrop in an argument that followed a minor automobile accident.

RUM QUEEN DEFAULTS

Montpelier, Vt., Dec. 22 (A.P.)—Hilda Stone, known to boundary patrol officers as "Queen of the border rum runners," failed to appear today in United States District Court when she was to have faced trial on rum-running charge and her bail of $1,500 was forfeited.

Her two male companions, Harry Murdock of Holyoke, Mass., and Fred Knowles of Bangor, Me., arrested with her near Beechers Falls November 24 in an auto containing [illegible] quarts of assorted liquors, pleaded guilty to transporting liquor. Murdock was fined $1,000 and sentenced to six months in jail, Knowles, who said he was only a passenger, was fined $500.

With failure of Hilda Stone to appear, Judge Harland B. Howe issued a warrant for her arrest. Mrs. Stone was released a few days ago after she had been arrested at Lowe, [illegible], for the fourth time within seven months. On that occasion she could not be held, for the car in which she was held contained no liquor.

Border officers say Mrs. Stone is one of the principal field agents of a ring which operates from Greenfield, Mass. She has admitted a fondness for the "thrill" of the game but admitted also that she raises turkeys when business is dull.

2 PATROLMEN ON TRIAL

Two patrolmen faced trial boards of three captains at police headquarters today.

George McGrath of the Joy street division was charged with reporting a half hour late and under the influence of liquor.

George Fraser of Division [illegible] went into a florist's shop and remained there more than 15 minutes when he was supposed to be out on his route, according to charges by Sergt. James J. Gallagher.

The GINTER Co.

"There's a GINTER Store in Your Neighborhood"

TODAY

following extract from a statement by John Quincy Adams when he was Secretary of State early in the last century. But it ought to interest Americans that don't make a living by buying European bonds below par, and selling them to American investors that will whistle for their money later on. Adams referred to this glorious nation when he said:

"She well knows that by once enlisting under other banners than her own, were they even the banners of foreign independence, she would involve herself beyond the power of extrication in all the wars of interest and intrigue, of individual avarice, envy and ambition, which assume the colors and usurp the standard of freedom."

PROFESSOR EDWARD S. MORSE, a noted authority on geology, is dead, but still useful. Yesterday his brain was sent by express to the Wistar Institute of Anatomy and Biology in Philadelphia. Professor Morse was "ambidextrous," could use one hand as readily as the other. He had, in effect, two right hands. Scientists say an examination of the brain may explain that.

One thing is certain. If your little boy is left-handed, don't try to make him use his right hand. That stupidity, centuries old, injures a child's mind, is useless.

SCIENCE MIGHT look in the dead man's brain for things more interesting than the secret of ambidextrous eccentricity.

What is it that works in there while the brain is alive and suddenly vanishes when the brain dies?

IN ENGLAND the body of King Edward has been moved so that his corpse, now dead for a long time, may lie beside that of his Queen, Alexandra, recently dead.

It is sweet British sentiment, but it is like taking the shells of the eggs from which two chickens have escaped, and putting those shells piously side by side. With the eggs it is the chicken that counts. With the human body it is the soul. How now close are Edward's and Alexandra's souls? That's the question.

WASHINGTON swivel chair heroes have learned that, while they can suspend Mitchell and otherwise seek to humiliate him, they can't frighten him. Testifying at the Shenandoah investigation, he continues to tell the truth, even the kind of truth that does not please army and navy heroes with large, round stomachs, and more opinions than experience in regard to flying.

A CAREFUL correspondent in France sees the French Republic enjoying a big boom and prosperity wave. Everybody is at work, factories are going at capacity. The balance of trade is in favor of France. No country in the world is working better or more smoothly than the French nation. So says the careful investigator.

THE BLACK CLOUD is one big debt to America, another big debt to England, complicated by the fact the French are less docile than other people in allowing themselves to be taxed.

The condition of French industry and prosperity ought to be a warning to those that are selling French exchange and other French values short.

YOUTH GLEAMS IN SOTHERN ACTING

Cast Is Letter Perfect in Wilbur Interpretation of "Accused"

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

OUT of the gay and, perhaps, more laborious costumes of the classics Mr. E. H. Sothern has stepped into the more easily understood modes of the moment in Brieux's "Accused" at the Wilbur. Not even a perfect Belasco production which, naturally, included artistic support of generous dimensions, lessened the task of the actor who had something new to show and found himself fussing in a strange neighborhood.

Confession being good for the soul, let it be said that the curtain had risen and the talented Sothern was well along on his journey into the introductory scenes of the play before it was discovered that the graceful young actor with the skilfully modulated voice, who seemed to be forming things into something of a definite nature, was not a luckily employed youngster earning a well deserved stipend, but was Sothern himself—Sothern with twenty years torn from his face, figure and acting manner.

Almost like a leading juvenile Mr. Sothern took up the task laid down by Brieux—that of a young advocate defending the woman he loved against a murder indictment he knew was fully warranted by the usual stage evidence as they present it in these grilling plays from over the seas. It always is that way with Brieux and his compatriots in the French school. First they definitely fix the guilt of the heroine and then leave it to some struggling young lawyer to untwist.

In "Accused" Mr. Sothern played a straight, hard game with conventional material. He was a solemn youngster torn with conflicting duties—one to his client, the other to his conscience. The client won the decision on suppressed emotion; got off without so much as a Suffolk county fine for murder and finally walked out on the deeply impressed attorney for no good reason.

The distinction that Mr. Sothern has given to a multitude of roles in the ancient drama came nicely into play in "Accused." Intellectually he was interesting in the interpretation of the mentally bewildered attorney; artistically he gave an impressive performance, always in good form with his situations and never out of tune with the character.

In support, the Belasco touch was inevitably present through Ann Davis, as the girl, and Lester Lonergan, as the father of the murder victim. Miss Davis played her part with wet eyes and a choking voice and was faithful to the last despairing line. Her performance was flawless. Mr. Lonergan, sinister and hard, came into the story impressively and remained so to the unhappy finale.

In "Accused" Mr. Sothern, after a lapse of years, again has taken to modern settings. Measured by last evening's affair it is a perfect fit.

Fire of Youth

In his interpretation of the lawyer defending his sweetheart in "Accused" at the Wilbur, E. H. Sothern shows all the fire and verve of renewed youth.

Cleared of Forgery

Harant Kazaz of No. 49 Mountfort street was found not guilty of a charge of forging the name of Pedro de Almeida, Spanish consul here, as endorser to checks for $600 and $173.38. Kazaz convinced the jury that he was a partner of de Almeida's in the export business and had a right to indorse the checks.

MELLIE ONE BIG HIT AS KEITH ACTOR, TOO

Ovation Given Fiddler and Gram in Good Act; Stedmans Real Stars

It was a big night for the folks up Norway, Me., way, for even if the folks were "to home" out of the chill breezes and not in Boston, Mellie Dunham, most famous of all Maine Norwegians, was stepping out again—this time as an actor at Keith's theatre.

As big as he went in Norway, in Lewiston, in Dearborn and in New York did the little old man from Maine go in the glare of the footlights—and with him went "Gram," brief though her time was on the stage.

And next go the honors to Al and Fanny Stedman, those same old troupers in experience—for they succeeded Mellie on the bill in a spot where a thousand other acts would have died and have been given no lily and their whirlwinded the audience back into their own [illegible].

As the balance of the evening's entertainment were the Australian Waites, whip snappers and boomerang throwers; Richard De Mar and Lillian Lester, clever but cold; Bert Errol, feminine impersonator from London's music halls; Ada Reeve and Monty and Corma, small acrobats.

GALLAGHER HIT AT ORPHEUM

With Rudolph Valentino in "The Eagle," and vaudeville in which Lewis & Dody as "The Window Cleaners" and Jimmie Gallagher and his Checker Inn Orchestra shared the leading honors, Loew's Orpheum Theatre gave its patrons good holiday fare.

"The Eagle" is a pretentious film with the action taking place in the land of the Czar before the revolution. The role calls for unusual versatility inasmuch as he appears in three distinct characterizations—first as a Cossack lieutenant, then as an adventurous bandit, and later as a famous French tutor.

Lewis and Dody kept the audience in a constant uproar with their chatter. The Checker Inn Orchestra, with Jimmie Gallagher at its head, was called upon for continued encores. Several other acts rounded out the bill.

'RED KIMONO'S' LESSON TOLD BY WIDOW

Mrs. Wallace Reid Points Strong Moral in Film at Tremont Temple

The hard luck of a woman, betrayed into bondage by a faithless [illegible] and shunned by society for her sins, forms the theme of "The Red Kimono," the second of Mrs. Wallace Reid's crusading films in the interest of morality, at Tremont Temple.

Mrs. Reid, however, does not play the modern Magdalene. Instead she simply "presents" the attraction in appearing in a prologue to explain in lengthy subtitles that the ensuing story has been selected by her from an actual court case on the Pacific coast.

The case of the fallen sister is set squarely before the audience in a series of episodes depicting the unfortunate's experiences of one Gabrielle lured to her hideous slavery by the man she loved and trusted. In a paroxysm of desperation, she shoots him and is tried for murder. Acquitted by a sympathetic jury, she is faced by a cold world and lured into the home of a publicity-mad society woman whose only intent is to exploit her notoriety.

Unable to endure the humiliation of being "exhibited," she escapes, but is unable to retain even the most menial of tasks. In a last despairing moment, she returns to the scenes of her degradation, only to be saved from her fate by an automobile accident and the resulting love of a chauffeur who "understands."

Irene Rich Is Star At Opening of New St. James

Irene Rich is the bright particular star on the opening bill at the new Keith-Albee St. James. She appears in "Compromise," a photoplay which gives free rein to her unusual emotional talents.

The film, a Warner Brothers production, directed by Alan Crosland, treats in original fashion the never-starving "triangle" theme. Pauline Garon revels vivaciously in the role of the "vamp," while Clive Brook is the husband. Louise Fazenda, Frank Butler, Raymond McKee, Helen Dunbar, Winter Hall, [illegible] Cowan, Edward Martindel and [illegible] Frances Dana are in the cast.

The Shelvey and Adams Revue Co. top the vaudeville in "Two Pals and Their Girl Friends." Cooney and Kennedy, Permaine and Shelley, Phil Dolan and Eleanor Gale, and Frank Work and Co. are also billed. There are a Hal Roach comedy, "His Wooden Wedding," the Pathe news reel, an animated cartoon, and "Topics of the Day."

JACOB DIEZER, VETERAN SHOE MANUFACTURER, DIES

Word was received in Weymouth today that Jacob Diezer, aged shoe manufacturer of that town, had died at his Winter home in St. Petersburg, Fla. Diezer was ninety-four years old and had lived practically all his life in Weymouth. He was one of the pioneers in the shoe manufacturing business on the South Shore. Funeral services were held today in the southern city and the body will be brought to Weymouth for interment.

'MANNEQUIN' AN IDEAL STORY FOR FILMS

Wide Range of Emotions in Fannie Hurst Feature at Metropolitan

True to the last detail in living up to the expensive purpose for which it was created, Fannie Hurst's $50,000 prize-winning story, "Mannequin," written "expressly for the screen," is showing at the Metropolitan. Every tried and true method of emotional stimulation known to the craft has been carefully contrived and expertly planted in a script that has wholeheartedly dedicated itself to the arts of human interest.

That it will be popular is unquestionable, for it not only takes you into the heart of the family, but also provides, for good measure, full view glimpses of every phase of metropolitan life as conceived by the standards of the master fiction writer.

There is first a glowing picture of marital bliss with a beautiful baby girl as the center of attraction, next the parental "quarrel" in family necessity everywhere, and then the abduction of the child to the slums where she blooms into radiant girlhood in spite of the squalid environment. The action picks up its speed with the appearance and the gown-shop scenes, and finaly shifts into high with a fast finale in the courtroom where the child is tried for murder by her own father as judge.

Dolores Costello is a thrillingly beautiful heroine. Warner Baxter and Alice Joyce are well cast as the doting parents, but the acting honors go to Zazu Pitts in her portrayal of the half-wit "Annie."

SIAMESE TWINS AT STATE IN PLEASING SKITS

Never has an audience at Loew's State been as cordial as that which greeted the San Antonio Siamese Twins, Daisy and Violet Hilton. It seemed that even the excellence of the photoplay "Old Clothes," starring Jackie Coogan, was overshadowed by the delightful personality of the famous twins.

What impressed the spectators about these girls was the utter lack of anything savoring of the usual museum "freak," and that in reality they seemed capable of every normal effort physically and mentally one would expect from any girl, except that of doing things apart. They sing beautifully, play the saxophone and piano with taste and even dance, each with a boy partner. They also exhibit a sense of humor.

"Old Clothes" is a sequel to Jackie's former picture, "The Rag Man," and again presents the old firm of Kelly & Ginsberg in the old clothes business.

'APPLESAUCE' GIVEN BIG WELCOME AT PLYMOUTH

Barry Conners' comedy of slang and blarney, "Applesauce," opened its local engagement at the Plymouth. It proved to be a lively affair of many amusing qualities. Alan Dinehart and Vivian Tobin headed a big cast. "Applesauce" will be reviewed in Wednesday's Boston Evening American.

ENTER MADAME SCORES AGAIN

Blanche Yurka again demonstrated her complete mastery in the leading role in "Enter Madame" at the Repertory Theatre. "Madame" enters her second week at this playhouse and an enthusiastic audience greeted Miss Yurka and her fellow-players in the ingenious comedy by Gilda Varesi and Dolly Byrne.

Running Miss Yurka a close second for acting and popularity is her husband—Arthur Behrens—as Gerald Fitzgerald. Closely pressing both for honors is Ross Alexander as John Fitzgerald.

All three offer a performance as finely finished as any seen in Boston in some seasons.

Others in the cast worthy of mention are Lenore Chippendale, Helen Wallace, Agnes Scott, John Thorn, Carolyn Ferriday and Horace Pollock.

FAMOUS POEM BOSTON FILM

The remarkable propensity of the movies in "adapting" any kind of narrative for screening is well illustrated in the filming of Coleridge's poem, "The Ancient Mariner" at the New Boston where it has a timely showing for Christmas week.

The allegorical nature of the work readily lends itself to the fantastic treatment it has received in the pictured version. There are long sequences of the under-sea kingdom of the rulers of the watery realms with a fluttering accompaniment of nymphs, gnomes and dryads; there the the melodramatic scenes of the slaying of the albatross with the subsequent "curse" of misfortune and death that overtakes the becalmed ship.

Interspersed with the tragedy is a "modern" sequence in which such featured players as Clara Bow, Earle Williams and Leslie Fenton appear.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Boies Penrose, 2nd, and Frances Kemble Marry at Marblehead Today

A WEDDING CEREMONIAL STAGED IN the Colonial drawing room of a beautifully preserved Marblehead mansion, and a wedding breakfast in a dining room equally famous as a period gem, was the unusual fortune of Miss Frances Kemble, daughter of the Parker A. Kembles, who today became Mrs. Boies Penrose, 2d.

International Newsreel

MRS. CYRIL H. JONES, the former Frederica Vanderbilt Webb, who soon goes to Palm Beach to join her parents, the Seward Webbs.

IT WAS A CHRISTMASSY wedding, with decorations of shining holly green and red. But truth to tell the magnificent old Lee mansion, a gem of Colonial craftsmanship and detail, rearing its tall self on Marblehead's town hill, needs no floral glorification to make it interesting.

ONLY THE IMMEDIATE families gathered for the wedding in the Colonial drawing room, where an old scenic French paper, prized and priceless, covers the walls. Only the families and close friends are bidden for the breakfast, as well.

MR. KEMBLE GAVE his daughter in marriage, and Mr. Penrose had for best man his brother-in-law, Andrew Van Pelt, a Philadelphian, like himself. The late Senator Boies Penrose, was the bridegroom's uncle, and his parents were the late Dr. Charles Brigham Penrose and Mrs. Penrose, also Philadelphians.

PRE-NUPTIAL AFFAIRS, altogether of the small and intimate variety, included a dinner last evening at the Kemble mansion, given for the wedding party, including also Mrs. Van Pelt. She and Mr. Van Pelt are guests at the Hotel Hawthorne, in Salem.

AFTER THE NEW YEAR Mr. and Mrs. Kemble depart southward for their usual Winter jaunt to warmer climes. This season they go by motor, and spend some time in the mountains of Virginia and thereabouts.

MOTORING IS A NEW departure for the Kembles, who are wont to journey South via water, and in their own motorboat. Mrs. Kemble and her daughter are intrepid sailors, and with the father and brother have shared many arduous, but to them, vastly enjoyable voyages.

BOUND FOR THE Big City and the large and brilliant ball at the Ritz-Carlton Wednesday evening honoring Miss Rosamond Auchincloss, there's a merry group of debutantes and young men leaving town tomorrow under the wing of Mrs. Robert Saltonstall, aunt of Miss Auchincloss.

THE SALTONSTALL twin daughters, Miss Harriet and Miss Caroline, go over for their cousin's dance, also Miss Dorothy Lawrence, daughter of the James Lawrences, and Miss Esther Cunningham, daughter of Mrs. Stanley Cunningham, each a prominent and popular bud of this season.

MEN OF THE group are Alexander Donald, Charles Thompson, William G. Saltonstall and Robert H. Hallowell, Jr. They'll be at the Ritz. The Saltonstalls return on Thursday to celebrate Christmas at their Readville home in the midst of a family party.

TAKING TIME BY the forelock, all to benefit their pet charity, the Children's Hospital, Mesdames Charles P. Curtis, Jr., Richard S. Russell and others announce that next June's annual showing of prize canines by the Ladies' Dog Club will be staged for the children's financial welfare.

CHILDREN HAVE ALWAYS benefitted from the show, funds having gone to one or another benevolent institution, but next June and thereafter the hospital will be the special protege, so to speak, of Dog Club members, and a very fine thing it is.

FANCIERS AND BREEDERS of pedigreed canines look upon this annual show as a red-lettered event in dogdom, as indeed it is. They come from far and near to show their dog aristocrats in a picturesque woodsy setting at the J. Randolph Coolidge Chestnut Hill estate.

IN HONOR OF THIS amalgamation of Dog Club and Children's Hospital interests yesterday was celebrated at the spick and span hospital out in Longwood avenue as "Ladies' Dog Club Day." An auspicious occasion, indeed, for dog show returns represent a goodly sum and will do much to ease the financial way of the children.

NEWPORT'S MIDWINTER quietude remains unruffled save for cheery Yuletide gatherings beneath hospitable rooftrees or unostentatious departures to livelier social centres. Such was, for instance, the flitting of Mrs. Guy Norman to Washington for a Winter season.

OUR "GREAT VILLAGE Capital" also claims that Newporter of parts and Beau Brummel extraordinary Thomas Powers. After a whirl at the Virginia Hot Springs Mr. Powers is happily domiciled at the Mayflower in Washington, from whence he dispenses his usual liberal hospitality.

MISS NATALIE MERRILL, whose social advent was an auspicious occasion of last Summer at Newport, was recently a guest in Gotham of the Countess Alexandrine Beroldingen, daughter of Mrs. Samuel Norris, of Bristol and Newport.

AS BRIDESMAID IN the Winifred Folsam Delafield-Donald McL. Frothingham nuptial pageant Miss Merrill figures prominently in an outstanding and highly important bridal. Boston and Newport, the Berkshires and Gotham each is vastly interested, the ceremonial to be in St. Thomas,' New York, January 8.

'CRUSOE' OPENS AT COPLEY

An appreciative audience of first-nighters saw their favorites in somewhat extraordinary roles at the Copley last night, for the capable actors celebrated Christmas week with a musical extravaganza, "Robinson Crusoe."

The story, which defied Defoe at times, was the work of the clever pens of Roger Wheeler and E. E. Clive, and all the lines were bright while some were particularly smart. Perhaps the outstanding musical number was the "Yo Ho, My Hearties" number, given by Terence Neil, Richard Whorf and Alan Mowbray, "the pirates three of a shocking pedigree."

Charles Vane's deep voice lent a weird majesty to the part of Davy Jones of locker fame, while Mr. Clive as Will Atkins, the double-faced villain, was outstanding.

The feminine members of the cast were well placed. Elspeth Dudgeon as Mrs. Crusoe carried the burden of what plot there was exceptionally well, while Katherine Standing made a particularly beautiful Robinson, and Jessamine Newcombe was captivating as the Fairy Queen. May Ediss as Polly Perkins, Robinson's sweetheart, is pretty and charming in her musical numbers, while the chorus of sailors won the hearts of the first nighters.

The extravaganza was well staged, and that the efforts of the cast were thoroughly appreciated was shown by the floral tributes offered.

DX CONDITIONS LAST NIGHT

By "The Doctor."

Rather heavy static was apparent during the evening. This made it difficult to bring in the outside stations clearly.

In the early part of the evening good volume was obtained from WMAK at Lockport, N. Y. This station was broadcasting by remote control from Buffalo.

Severe heterodyning was noticeable at several points on the dial.

This of course, added to the difficulties of outside reception. Local stations were ideal.

U. S. WILL SIT AT DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE

Coolidge to Accept Invitation of League of Nations; Is Now Framing His Reply

Washington, Dec. 22 (I.N.S.)—President Coolidge has decided to accept the League of Nations invitation to participate in its disarmament conference, it was plainly indicated at the White House today, following the cabinet meeting.

The League's invitation is being considered as a constructive statement, the President told callers, and with a view to ascertaining how the United States can best cooperate with the purpose of the League in obtaining world-wide reduction of armament.

Simultaneously there was introduced in both Houses of Congress at noon resolutions indorsing the proposed gathering and authorizing Mr. Coolidge to appoint the necessary American delegates.

In the Senate, King of Utah put in a resolution setting forth that the American government "is interested in the prevention of war and promotion of peace" and then, citing the League's conference, specifically advises the President to "participate in any conference respecting limitation of land, marine or air armament which may be called by the League of Nations and to which the government of the United States shall be invited to send representatives."

In the House, Moore of Virginia put in a resolution "requesting" Mr. Coolidge to accept the League's invitation and authorizing him to name American delegates.

Passage of either resolution or both would, of course, give the President the Congressional sanction he has deemed it wise to get before taking final action.

FORD'S FLIGHT TO POLE IS UP TO CONGRESS

Washington, Dec. 22 (A.P.)—A project for a Polar flight has been presented to the War Department by William D. Mayo, chief engineer for Henry Ford, but officials have decided that Congressional authority will be necessary for government participation.

Mayo discussed the project with Secretary Davis and Major General Mason M. Patrick, chief of the Army Air Service, suggesting that the army should lend flying equipment and personnel. The question was refered to the Legal Bureau of the War Department and an adverse opinion was given.

Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the noted Arctic explorer, is said to be the moving spirit of the expedition, which it is thought will leave next April or May.

ONE JAILED, ANOTHER HELD IN SOMERVILLE ROBBERY

John M. Doherty, thirty-two years old, of No. 8 Dix place, Somerville, was given two years in the House of Correction by Judge Ralph M. Smith in Somerville Court today, when found guilty of breaking and entering the home of Miss Mary Gavin at No. 4 Poplar street, Somerville, on December 7, and larceny of clothing and money, valued at $409. Probable cause was found in the case of James J. Culligan, twenty-nine years of age, of No. 32 London street, Somerville, arraigned on the same charge, and he was held in $2,000 for the Grand Jury.

TOM LAWSON WAS NEARLY BANKRUPT DURING 1922

Brockton, Dec. 22—Thomas W. Lawson was practically bankrupt in October 1922, long before his death, according to the testimony of Horace P. Fogg, trustee of the Lawson estate, in probate court here.

The trustees seek instructions from the court as to their accounting of the estate, saying they have been bothered by the procedure of the financier's two sons, Douglas and Arnold, who once previously sought to have the trustees removed.

Fogg said that in October, 1922, the Massachusetts Mortgage Company threatened to foreclose its third mortgage of $19,515 on the Lawson property, and that the witness induced the Rockland Trust Company to take over the mortgage.

Fogg said he had himself given the trust company a $10,000 surety from his own pocket in order that both sides might be protected.

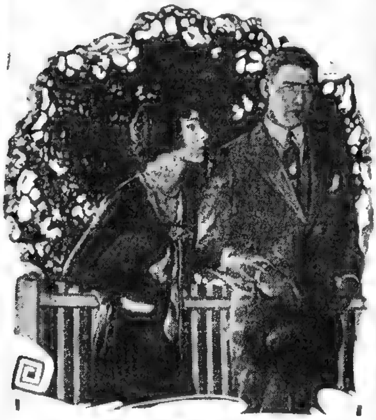
A Real Life Serial of Love and Temptation in the Mad Whirl of Boston Business



[illegible] Mary Rose [illegible]

READ THIS FIRST

FLOSSIE and MARY ROSE MIDDLETON are two pretty sisters, the daughters of a widowed mother. Both of them work for Dexter & Co., big Congress street bond firm

Flossie helps keep the files under MISS MACFARLANE Mary Rose is secretary to the sales-manager, JOHN MANNERS, with whom she is in love. But Manners is engaged to DORIS HINIG, a girl of wealth.

Mary Rose discovers that Flossie is carrying on a flirtation with the head of the concern, HILARY DEXTER, a married man with grown children.

Flossie stays out with Dexter till midnight two or three nights a week

In the meantime Flossie carries on another love affair with SAM JESSUP, who is Mr. Dexter's secretary. The mother of the girls, MRS. MIDDLETON, doesn't approve of Sam, because of his poverty.

Mary Rose points out to Flossie that nothing but misery can come to her through her affair with Dexter. But Flossie says she can take care of herself and the affair goes merrily on.

Mary Rose does everything she can to break it up

One night John Manners brings Mary Rose home from work, and as he stands at the door of the house, suddenly proposes that they go out for dinner together.

CHAPTER XII

But still she hung back. [illegible] "I shouldn't go with you, should I? You—you're engaged to that Miss Hinig, aren't you?"

"Oh, fiddlesticks." His tone was impatient, for he wanted very much, somehow, to be alone with Mary Rose Middleton. [illegible]

[illegible]

They stood there together for a long moment, with the scent of the lilacs all around them. Mary Rose never smelled lilacs again without thinking of that moment—

"You don't want to go with me then?" he asked [illegible] and turned to go.

Mary Rose Weeps

She caught her breath. "I'd rather go with you than do anything else in the world," she answered. "But I wouldn't—I wouldn't [illegible] the girl you're going to marry."

The door of the house closed behind her, leaving him standing alone in the darkness. "Well, I'll

A Pipe for HIM

—And Gifts of Amber for Her

Men who are at a loss as to what to buy "her," will do well to inspect our stock of hand made articles of amber—necklaces, ear pendants, brooches and many other novelties await your pleasure.

Men who smoke pipes will welcome a pipe-gift from Ehrlich's. Some men like plain or carved meerschaums with amber mouthpiece — we have them. Others prefer pipes of sturdy briar—we also have an unexcelled line of these. From the most ornate novelty meerschaum to the plainest, most inexpensive briar, our line of pipes is complete. We are always happy to aid you in making your selection of a gift that will awaken real pleasure in his heart on Christmas morning.

Sport is all set for a happy new year, no matter what clashes [illegible] most intimately concerned may toss in the road.

BERN NEIS, tiny Braves outfielder, wrote a rather significant letter when he signed his 1926 contract. He said he WOULD have a good year with the Braves in the next shuffle.

He didn't say he would be [illegible] Just announced [illegible] that he would be good. [illegible] Bernie [illegible]

The fault is not intentional, merely a matter of disposition.

WHEN Neis broke into the large leagues, he was tossed in with a lot of hard-boiled veterans on the Brooklyn club. He never could catch on to a regular job. He spent the greater part of three years on the [illegible]

LITTLE Mister Neis contracted the habit of accepting a slight [illegible] to avoid [illegible] chance to shine as a Brave outfielder last Spring, but a bad back stopped him right at the start.

He felt that his old [illegible] was present and grew [illegible] The energy and spirit of the Braves snapped him out of his long [illegible] in the year. He began to see the light, to realize that his native ability wasn't going to keep him among those present, if he didn't hustle.

Bernie gets a big salary, and is young enough to star for several years. His letter shows that he has come to realize that every member of a good ball club has to fight

SPORT EDITORIAL

YOU all remember the old fable about the foxy tramp who showed the Irish farmer how to make stone broth. He showed the farmer a huge white stone which he called a soup stone, induced the farmer to put it in a kettle full of hot water, told him what vegetables and meat to add, and soon sat down with his delightful host to partake of the wonderful "stone broth."

Whenever we hear about the "luck" of some great star in or out of the sporting world we think of that fable. "Luck" plays the same part in a successful career that the stone played in the making of the "stone broth."

Luck is the stone in the broth of Success.

Hard work, self-denial and ambition are the meat and vegetables that make the broth.

Super athletes, like Grange and Dempsey of today or like Shevlin or Mathewson or Terry McGovern of yesterday, did not become super athletes by standing around a cigar store or by banking the fifteen ball in the side pocket in some smoke filled pool hall.

Exceptional bodies and exceptional minds are ripened by hard work and hard study.

There is no short cut, no magic lamp to rub, no "pull."

It's too bad, boys, but it's also too true.

DR. REED'S SECRETS OF HEALTH

By Charles A. L. Reed, M. D.
Former President American Medical Association.

YOUR very natural concern about your children is the keenest during their critical years, those between puberty and manhood, approximately from fourteen to twenty-one.

Character should be fully developed by twenty-one, but continue to be formed until a very late age. No one is perfectly normal, and nearly all of us are psychologically years behind our calendar age. This delay is due to many causes, but a very important one is failure to become independent of the parents.

During its first years a child is almost as much part of the mother as it was before birth. It is dependent on her for food, warmth and protection.

This early life is so easy, says Dr. W. A. Potts (Lancet), that it is often called paradise, and we all unconsciously want to return to it.

A married man in financial difficulties regrets not having taken the chance of marrying a girl with money, and a young married woman will occasionally desert her husband and return for a time to her indulgent father and mother.

The maternal instinct is very beautiful, but very dangerous. A mother must teach her child early to become independent of her, and at about twelve years of age a boy should be interested in his father and the girl in her school companions.

If the mother holds a boy between fourteen and twenty-one, he cannot develop his talents, nor, if he marries, can he be master in his own house. Fear of facing life holds a child to his mother, and she must help to free him from what make him a timid, unsuccessful and unhappy man.

A mother-tied woman will often break down when she gets married from the fear of bearing children. To such a woman an easy job with a pension attached represents a mother.

The failure of a man to get free from his father's influence seriously hinders his thought-side. It tends to keep him in mental grooves, bound by narrow conventions.

In a girl, however, such an attachment to a father is a fatal bar to her making a real marriage. She will never entirely give herself to her husband. Often she will not marry at all, but become an old maid. Fathers must make their daughters independent.

Charitable societies are largely composed of father-tied women whose sex life has been strangled. It is well enough, therefore, to remember that home influence is very potent for good and equally so for evil if misused or unduly prolonged. The mother tie, unduly prolonged, makes cowards and the father tie similarly prevents independent thought.

The mother tie stands for comfort and the father tie for convention. As long as a boy clings to the mother he cannot cling to his wife; as long as a girl clings to her father, she cannot cling to her husband.

Both must be free, and not until they are can they, as husband and wife, be one flesh.

If they remain tied to their respective parents they will inevitably burden their children in turn with their own unsolved problems of development.

FOXY GRANDPA BEDTIME STORY

By Foxy Grandpa

"WE haven't been up to the Zoo for a long time, Foxy Grandpa," said Bobby one Saturday morning.

"How would you like to go to-day?" I asked him.

"Fine!" shouted Bobby, and Bunny gave a nod of approval.

We got on the subway and it took us to the Bronx Zoo. We went as soon as Bobby had bought a bag of peanuts and had them stowed away in his pocket, after we had sampled them to see that they were freshly roasted, we started up the walk.

"Who shall we call on first?" I asked.

"The elephants," said Bobby, and into the elephant house we went. Bobby had a great time feeding his favorite elephant but I noticed that Bunny was restless. Finally he gave a leap and a bound right up into my pocket, and from the depths of my pocket came his muffled voice saying:

"It may be a good thing to have a big tom-cat around for the elephants, because they are afraid of mice. But, Foxy Grandpa, that big black cat wasn't thinking about doing guard duty for the elephants when he looked at me. How long does Bobby want to stay here, anyway?"

I laughed and suggested to Bobby that we move on. So on to the lions we went, then the tigers and finally out to the kangaroos. Then the giraffes.

"Foxy Grandpa," said Bobby as we stood before the pen of the giraffes. "Do you suppose that things taste good all the way down their necks? Think of tasting a lolly-pop that long!"

"I don't know," I laughed, "but did you hear about the boarding-house keeper who gasped at the giraffe when she first saw one and exclaimed how many steaks his neck would make?"

"There are some advantages in being small," commented Bunny, "although on the other hand it takes more of us to serve a large family."

We stood there for a while, watching the giraffes picking off the leaves from the top of a small tree, shooting out their long tongues and wrapping them around the leaves before they pulled them off. Then Bobby pulled my sleeve and whispered:

"Do you see the tears streaming down that one giraffe's face, Foxy Grandpa? Do I you suppose he heard us and his feelings are hurt?"

"They are tears, as sure as I'm alive, Bobby. I don't think he could understand us. Perhaps he has a cold in his eyes."

"His face looks very sad to me," said Bunny, who overheard Bobby's whisper. "That's not cold."

"I wonder what it is," said Bobby, just as the guard came up.

"I'll ask the guard," I said. "Is that giraffe sick?" I asked him.

"Homesick," replied the guard. "You see the man who took care of that fellow for years was retired for old age a few days ago. And I took his place. That giraffe has moped ever since and I want to tell you they are real tears that he often sheds."

"That is remarkable," I said.

"I'm sorry for him," said the man kindly. "But I hope to win his confidence soon and have him like me. It's strange, but they are very affectionate animals and become attached to their keepers."

"You see, Foxy Grandpa," whispered Bunny as we started off, "all the tender hearts don't beat in human breasts."

CALLS SHARK A HOUSE PET

They'd moved the Saragossa Sea when William Beebe went looking for it, and he found the other object of his expedition, the Humboldt current, which used to chill the west coast of South America, had been shut off altogether.

Nevertheless, the scientist, director of tropical research of the New York Zoological Society, whimsically announces the cruise of the Arcturus was a success.

He found hundreds of little fish, fractions of inches long, impossible to classify because they wouldn't look the same when they grew up.

"I always have been of opinion that a shark is a much maligned creature and I proved my theory to my satisfaction," he said.

Spurning the heavy diver's costume, Mr. Beebe invaded the floor of the ocean in a bathing suit and a copper helmet with a hose equipment for air.

He and the Arcturus' crew made hundreds of trips under the water and observed sharks swimming about by the dozen. But none, he said, attempted to attack.

COOK-COOS

Sir—

I seek confidential advice. I am en route to Boston and was shocked today to find the following news item:

(By Associated Press)

New York—Annie Pagliasi, hypnotist, and Jack Dillon, his assistant, Friday were given suspended sentences for throwing Sol Trenches in water, out of a ninth story window of the Hotel Flanders. They were convicted Tuesday of assault in the third degree.

I expect, of course, to have arguments with waiters.

I understand that the law in Boston is—

That a waiter thrown out of a window from one to ten stories is assault in the third degree.

Out of a window ten to twenty stories—assault in second degree.

Out of a window twenty to thirty stories—assault in the first degree.

Is there a cafe on the top floor of the Custom House Building?

MONEY-MAKING IN WALL ST. IS TOPIC

By FRANK H. MELOON,
Financial Editor.

Earl of Birkenhead, speaking in the House of Lords, remarked that one of his fellow members would probably be unable to make $10 in Wall Street. This has been interpreted by a Boston editorial writer as a sneer, yet it may have been a compliment. Money is made in Wall street in various ways. Some are honest and some are dishonest. Presumably the same might be said of any other street in the world where marketing of one sort or another is carried on.

Titled Britons are much in the public eye these days with expressions of opinions that are accepted in America as "good copy" for a number of reasons. There is Lord Montague of Beaulieu, who has just told Northampton (Eng.) Polytechnic students that "safety first," aside from applying to street traffic, is a silly phrase that puts a wet blanket on ambition. Just the same it will not require an extended study of brokers' board rooms to convince most of us that in financial as well as in street traffic, the "safety first" follower is ahead in the long run.

So many writers of stock market letters are commenting on installment plan buying as if it were something entirely new, that I am led to set down here the wise comment of A. Lincoln Filene, who says: "There is admittedly danger in taking an extreme attitude on either side of this question. Installment buying, at least on its present scale, offers a new problem in our economic life. Like any other movement which is likely to bring about far-reaching changes in our methods of doing business, it must contain possibilities of evil as well as good.

"There are many attractive sides to installment buying from the point of view of business men and the public. Nevertheless it is still in the experiment stage. The chief need, it seems to me, is to observe every forward step very carefully to guard against stumbling into pitfalls."

From the same sources which have enabled us correctly to inform our readers in the past regarding money rates, we are told the advance in call money to 6 per cent is only a temporary affair.

By B. C. Forbes

[illegible] can one get most out of [illegible] the country or in the city? [illegible] in the city or a job in the [illegible] to be preferred?

[illegible] ever such a question arises, [illegible] attractions and benefits of the [illegible] are lauded.

[illegible] do you think?

[illegible] know that the notion that [illegible] brought up in the country [illegible] families living in the country [illegible] healthy than city folks [illegible] exploded?

[illegible] recent years all authori[illegible] records prove that the people [illegible] in towns and cities are, as [illegible] healthier, sounder, freer [illegible] than those who live [illegible] open spaces. If I recall [illegible] draft statistics estab[illegible] fact that a higher per[illegible] of city youths were found [illegible] fit than country youths. [illegible] it has been proved that a [illegible] percentage of children born [illegible] and cities reach healthy [illegible] and girlhood than children [illegible] districts.

So much for the physical, the [illegible] of the matter. What about other phases of life and living?

[illegible] families living in the country now have automobiles and can reach the nearest community [illegible] city without loss of time. Also there are almost as many telephones in the country as there are automobiles. And it is estimated that we are now approaching four million radios.

But there are vast stretches in this country, there are hundreds of agricultural districts where the people have relatively little social intercourse, relatively few facilities in many, many places cannot compare with those of our towns and cities. The most talented preachers usually gravitate to the larger churches to be found in the larger communities.

Poets and other theorists rave about the idyllic life in the backwoods, but is it not true today that life in towns and cities really offers more attractions, more opportunities, more responsibilities, more important missions? As the late J. P. Morgan once remarked: "If you want to catch a big fish you must go where there is plenty of water."

MGR. M'GRATH PRIEST FOR 60 YEARS

By JAMES WALSH

The Rt. Rev. Mgr. Christopher T. McGrath, irremovable parish priest at St. Joseph's, Somerville, the oldest priest in the Boston archdiocese, will observe the sixtieth anniversary of The jubilarian will not make any morrow.

Mgr. McGrath has been in charge of the parish since its establishment fifty-six years ago this Christmas. The jubilarian will not make any special observance of his anniversary as a priest. He will celebrate mass as usual, and the children of the parish will receive holy communion.

Already the prelate has received many messages of congratulation from various sections of the country. He will be eighty-three years old next month, is in the best of health and enjoys his daily walk through the streets of Somerville.

He was born in East Boston and received his elementary school education in that district. He entered college at Kingston, Ontario, and made his theological studies at St. Mary's College, Baltimore, where he was ordained a priest on December 23, 1865.

Mgr. McGrath's first appointment was as assistant at the Church of the Most Holy Redeemer, East Boston. Later he served at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Lawrence. He was appointed pastor of the parish over which he still presides in 1869.

He is a member and has been chaplain of Mount Benedict Council Knights of Columbus.

KNIGHTS PLAN XMAS CHEER

Roxbury K. of C. Council is again planning this year to make happy the poor children of that district by supplying underwear, stockings, gloves, toys, candy and suits to every deserving child without regard to race or color.

All children endorsed by the different organizations, principals of schools, priests and sisters in the district will be taken care of.

Nearly $1,000 has been raised and the council writes to thank all who contributed in any way to the fund. George E. Curran, of the Governor's Council, was purchasing agent again this year, which fact meant 100 per cent. return on every dollar spent.

The principal workers who assisted Grand Knight John A. McCormack are: Treasurer, Joseph McGreevy, PGK; Charles W. Nicholson, PGK; George E. Curran, Governor's Council; Patrick Canfield; C. McCormack, T. A. McCormack, Theodore Eldracker, William Larkin, J. Burns, M. Brennan, F. Brennan, M. Toomy, T. Tobin, A. McDonald, J. McDonald, C. McCasker, J. Hallisey, J. Powers, J. McNichols, J. Hoar, J. McCarthy, Wm. O'Keefe and W. J. Donovan.

SANTA BRINGS CHEER TO HOSPITAL CHILDREN

Hear the jingle, jingle, dingle, it's the bells of old Kris Kringle at the Children's Hospital, No. 300 Longwood avenue. Yes Santa, through the efforts of Miss Louise Fessenden of No. 1 Raleigh street, Boston, and the generosity of T. J. Johnson of Boston, visited the crippled and afflicted kiddies in the out-patient ward today.

All of the little tots except wee Tommy Minton of No. 3 Melbourne street, Dorchester, received two presents and a box of candy. But little Tommy should worry about a tubercular hip. He got his ice cream.

Dr. Hyman Green, visiting physician, played Santa. To the girls he gave dolls, beads, and books. The boys received spinning tops, balls and purses. All of the presents were stacked on tables near a beautiful tree appropriately decorated.

NEW BOSTON AND FLORIDA SERVICE

A new freight service between Boston, Miami and other Florida ports will be inaugurated early in January. The Plant line will put the steamer Southland in berth at Commonwealth Pier to take on freight for Miami. Subsequently she will be in the Miami, Brunswick, Ga., service with the Shipping Board steamer Lake Crescent in the Boston-Miami run. The Southland was formerly the Sarah Weems and was recently bought by the Plant line.

THREE-DAY VACATION FOR STATE EMPLOYES

State employes today received a Christmas gift from Governor Fuller in the form of a three-day vacation over the week-end. In directing that the employes be not required to report for the usual half a day on Saturday, the Governor said it is not often that Christmas falls on Friday, making a three-day vacation possible.

STORES TO BE OPEN SATURDAY AFTER XMAS

The Retail Trade Board of the Boston Chamber of Commerce announces department stores of the city will reopen for business the Saturday after Christmas, after being closed Friday. Banks of the city will be open on Saturday also.

fund for making some kid happy at Christmas.

"This year the class printed Christmas cards to sell at 2 cents apiece and we raised $10.

"We gave $9 to our district nurse, who looks after the sick mothers and babies near our school and the other $1 we brought into you."

What an inspiration for prosperous grownups and financially fortunate boys and girls!

On the roster of Good Fellows these three names have been indelibly inscribed.

Wouldn't you who read of and admire their spontaneous generosity feel highly honored to let the Good Fellow Editor write your name in the same page as theirs?

LONELY XMAS FOR SOME HARVARD BOYS

Harvard closes for the Christmas recess tomorrow, to open again January 4. Last classes were held today. There will be a general scurry towards avenues of traffic, although numbers of students whose class work warranted it were allowed to leave Cambridge earlier.

Entertainment is provided for those men who remain in Cambridge, either through choice or through lack of funds. President and Mrs. Lowell throw open the presidential manor on Quincy street for a reception Christmas Eve, while the Phillips Brooks House Association offers their quarters for an "open house" Christmas night. The Union announces a special Christmas Day dinner.

TWO XMAS PROGRAMS OFFERED BY B. U.

Two musical programs, one tomorrow and the other Christmas eve, will constitute part of the Boston University observance of the holiday season.

The public is invited to attend the musical services to be given by the choir of the College of Liberal Arts, tomorrow noon, at the college building, No. 688 Boylston street, Back Bay.

A group of 35 students of the School of Religious Education and Social Service will sing carols on Beacon Hill on Thursday evening. The location of the new women's dormitory will be disclosed to the students when a faculty member leads the carolers to it in the course of the march.

Napoleon of the Elevator

Absolute Ruler, Happier Than Bonaparte, He Knows No St. Helena

What is power? Like Gaul, it is divided into three parts. There is INTELLECTUAL power. Newton, Copernicus, Galileo and Kepler had it. There is SPIRITUAL power, possessed by those that establish new religions and persuade others to think as they do.

Then, least glorious, there is MATERIAL power, which makes other men do as you command.

Napoleon had the last, also Caesar, Alexander, Hammurabi, William the Conqueror, and thousands of others.

It is possessed also by a Napoleon who directs the elevators in a downtown office building. He is about as tall as Napoleon, up to your shoulder, and at least twice as dignified as Napoleon. His commands are obeyed.

Many elevators go up and down. Not one goes until he clicks and gives the order. He stands straight and dignified in his uniform, never smiling, knowing that the going up and coming down of those elevators depends on him.

You ask a question and he points. No words uttered. The point tells you which elevator you must take.

Napoleon at the bridge, Napoleon ordering the gunners to fire at the ice and make the fleeing enemy sink into the cold water, Napoleon taking the crown from the Pope and putting it on his head with his own hands, young Napoleon teaching war to the great Austrian generals, all that was fine in its way, and magnificent.

The Napoleon of the Elevators lacks some of Napoleon's sensations, but he also lacks the WORST OF THEM.

Napoleon had to die on St. Helena, a prisoner of England, with stomach ulcers eating his strength and causing intense pain.

The Napoleon of the Elevators will die in his bed, unless he is run over by a taxicab. He establishes a policy with his clicker and it endures. He has no mob to worry him by howling outside his palace window. He hasn't a palace, and THAT'S a great advantage.

No ministers of State interfere with his plans. He can say with an assurance that Napoleon NEVER possessed l'etat c'est moi, meaning "I am the State." And he IS, for his elevators.

The ancient revered the power that ordered the rising and the setting of the sun. Well they might.

Everything is comparative. And that power, which by the way never really existed, was no more impressive than the power of that little square-shouldered Elevator Napoleon who orders the rising and falling of the elevators.

Get a job to fit YOUR ambition, attend to it well, and it will attend to you. That's happiness.

Mr. Smile-on-His-Face-at-Christmas

"Take it from me, I'll never be caught ANOTHER Christmas, without money enough to do all I want to do. Never again! Not I."

Are YOU saying something like this?

And what did you say in July? or was it August?

"I'll make a bet that when ANOTHER vacation-time comes around, I'll have money enough laid by to enjoy a REAL vacation, a house at the beach, perhaps, or a camp up on Cobbosseecontee."

If, vainly, you have been protesting to yourself semi-annually in this manner, over a period of years, you may have found some solace in the company which misery assures us of, but you know it is mighty poor company.

Why not get out of it?

The way? Easy enough, as you may see in downtown Boston and even in the suburbs, at almost every street-corner.

Join the Christmas Club of one of our New England savings banks, and in the language of a once popular office motto, "DO IT NOW!"

The happy, smiling folk you have been glowering at, as you have bumped about doing your Christmas shopping, are some of the forward-looking Americans who, in the past year and in 6,800 banking institutions, piled up $314,154,800.

The savings bank habit is one of the most helpful habits known to Americans. Join the 7,000,000 who have it and make all the Christmases you have left MERRY Christmases, and all your New Years HAPPY New Years!

Buy a New England Town?

It Has Been Done, and Quite Recently

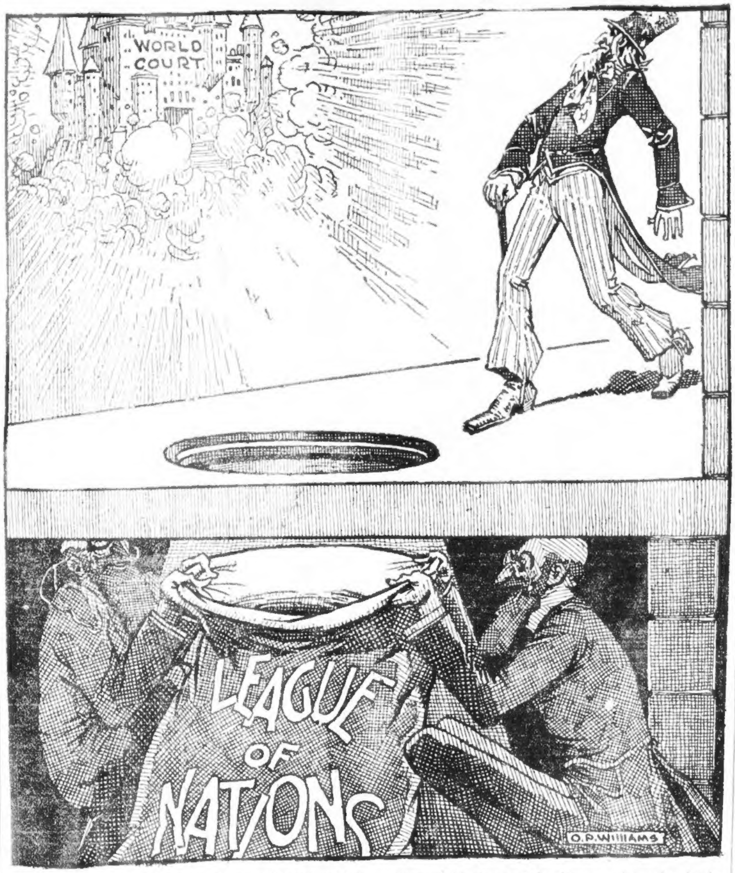
The report that a New Hampshire corporation has acquired 22,000 acres in the Grafton County town of Waterville, about twenty miles above Plymouth and sixty-eight miles from the State capital, will attract more attention, perhaps, when it is pointed out that the city of Haverhill has an area of 21,192 acres and Worcester an area of 23,781 acres.

Out of this great tract which the Parker-Young Company is taking over, in the midst of some of the finest mountain and valley scenery in New England, might be cut TEN cities the size of Somerville, or FIVE cities as big in area as Cambridge.

No alarm has been shown in New Hampshire because of the lumber company's big purchase. The "policy" of the buyers, we are told, is to "cut only mature trees, letting the smaller trees grow, thus ensuring a regular crop and production generation after generation."

As a matter of fact, it will be news to many that there IS a Waterville in New Hampshire. Yet the Pemigewasset Valley town has been showing some growth. Its population in 1910 was 16; ten years later, 95. The one thing man has done for the little community, and the true New England touch, is the public library. Much will be forgiven the Parker-Young Company if it duplicates in Waterville its Hotel Lincoln, in the nearby town of that name.

Watch Your Step



THERE was a memorable poem of our childhood entitled "Little Johnny Look-in-Air." It described the horrible fate that befell the youth who didn't look where he was going. Is that the kind of a shrewd old fellow our revered Uncle Samuel is?

He has been able to look up and aspire. But he has not been lured by mirages.

Some of his sons and daughters are being lured today. They have their eyes on a castle in the Netherlands—built by Andrew Carnegie.

They are closing their eyes to the tricksters of Geneva. The two are essentially connected. Geneva is European politics. Europe plays politics internationally the way they play it domestically in city wards. And that's the bag they're holding for Uncle Sam.

LISTEN, WORLD!

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

By Elsie Robinson

WHEN Justice Selah B. Strong of the New York State Supreme Court issued his recent protest against indiscriminate granting of alimony he threw a disturbing monkey wrench into the whole domestic machine. From all parts of the country have come answers which touch every angle of the married relation and every grievance, real or fancied.

Mrs. Anne Kennedy, connected with the American Birth Control League, in answering Justice Strong's statement that "childless wives should not receive alimony," says:

"It is all nonsense to say that a wife is a parasite unless she has children. She gives up the best years of her life to build up her husband's success. She grows old before he does. The divorce generally occurs because the man, confined to business in his younger days, suddenly feels it is time to begin to enjoy life, but the woman who has made his home is too worn out to accompany him in his amusements."

This answer will doubtless be greeted with [illegible] from Cape Cod to the Golden Gate. It is the feminine retort par excellence, sanctioned by tradition and approved by [illegible]. But here is one [illegible], self-supporting female who believes that the answer is the bunk and resents the reflection on her sex.

There isn't half the excuse for the average childless woman of fifty to be "worn out" as there is for the average man. No matter how devoted she has been, she has never faced a quarter the strain and responsibility which he has had to endure.

As a matter of fact, the "worn out" condition of most middle-aged wives is entirely due to their own mental and physical laziness. They allow both brains and bodies to become flabby and [illegible] to pose as martyrs to marriage.

But any woman who respects the strength and intelligence of her own sex feels bitter contempt for such posing. To such a woman alimony is a mark of [illegible] and defeat rather than a reward of merit.

MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE

By Helen Rowland

"WHAT makes a woman love a man?" writes a masculine correspondent.

* * *

Now I call that tactless—coming from a man! Most men appear to think that just being a MAN is a fatal fascination, in itself—like being a blonde or a rich widow or a prize Pekingese or a new baby.

Helen Rowland

And yet, every woman wonders what some other woman "sees in that man"!

Nobody can tell what makes a woman love a man—not even the woman, herself.

* * *

Woman's love is a combination of maternal tenderness, childlike inconsistency, sublime unselfishness, tigerish jealousy and sweet caprice—and who can analyze a mixture like that?

Three Minute Journeys

By TEMPLE MANNING

THERE is perhaps no event in the history of the United States which is so celebrated in song and story as the landing of the pilgrims on Plymouth Rock.

The rock on which they landed has taken on a hallowed significance for the great country that sprung from their efforts. The story is told that the pilgrims first landed on Plymouth Rock, before they reached the mainland. And this rock has been consistently guarded from harm by the generations who look back with thanks to the inspired little group.

On October 6, 1774, all the freemen of the surrounding districts assembled at Plymouth to remove the rock to the Town Square where it could be safely preserved against the encroaching waves. As they were raising it from its bed, the rock split in two. There was a moment of most intense consternation. Then one man of spirit and quick mind suggested that this might be an omen of the imminent break in the British dominion.

The upper half of the rock was then carried to a position of honor in front of Pilgrim Hall. It remained there for some time until it was again moved in 1880 and placed on the other half on Water Street. There it remains in its entirety under a canopy of stone.

"You Said It, Marceline!"

By MARCELINE D'ALROY

ON "SPOILED WIVES"

WHEN A MAN LOVES
HIS WIFE he often spoils
Her. Not that he WANTS
To, but he just does
Not know how NOT to.
And naturally SHE
Would not tell him, even
If she KNEW.
The trouble with GIRLS
To whom men GIVE WAY
Is that they NEVER
REALIZE that a man
MIGHT BE making
A SACRIFICE for them,
And they finally believe
There is ONLY one way—
And THAT WAY is
THEIR WAY.
PITY the POOR MAN who
Spoils a PRETTY WIFE;
SHE may be merely Spoiled TEMPORARILY, but
HE may be RUINED
FOR LIFE.
A HUSBAND, very often,
Puts HIS FOOT
Down in his OWN HOME
And then
ONE woman may STEP ON IT,
While ANOTHER may STEP OUT.

SINS COMMITTED AT LONG DISTANCE

By DR. FRANK CRANE

IN a Southern city recently garbage collectors have found a number of live kittens wrapped in the paper they were taking to the incinerating plant.

At the plant when an employe was about to throw a bundle of wrapper paper into the crematory he felt a movement and found a live kitten in one bundle.

Few people in America are so lost to human kindness as to throw a trusting, soft-furred kitten into a blazing fire. None of the women who put the kittens in the paper would have thought of throwing them into the fire themselves.

They were put in the paper, they disappeared, and that was the last seen of them. Because they went through several hands the women did not feel full responsibility for the act.

It was a case of long-distance sinning.

Most of the inhumanities and cruelties that occur in modern life may be traced to long-distance sinning.

When a board of directors of a big corporation decides upon a policy that will grind down employes to less than a living wage or puts children to work at a time when it stunts both body and mind, no one man feels wholly responsible. Also, they are so far removed from the human suffering that it does not touch them.

Yet such long-distance sinning carries on down through helpless subordinates with as real a cruelty as results from individual inhumanity.

There is an old saying that much less meat would be eaten if the individual had to kill the animal he ate.

Few people would think of killing a lamb, though they eat lamb chops, thus from a distance causing the thing they would shrink from doing themselves to be done.

In a lynching no one person is committing the act, but each individual is removed by a diffusion of responsibility. If the individual were alone he would hesitate in extremes of cruelty, but the feeling that he is not alone in doing the deed spurs him on to the inhuman.

Tender-hearted women who cry over a poodle dog that trips over a carpet will wear furs that were obtained by the most feline tortures to far-away animals, and feathers procured only by heartless cruelty to distant birds.

Those who commit the actual deeds of cruelty justify themselves as mere cogs in the machine, by saying as long as the demand lasts if they do not do them someone else will.

A person is responsible for his personal acts and also to a certain extent for his long-distance sinning.

COPERNICUS CASE IS LIKE COLUMBUS

By Garrett P. Serviss

Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

A READER asks for Copernicus' proof of the heliocentric theory.

The case of Copernicus is in some respects much like that of Columbus.

Columbus by his famous voyage showed the way to the new world, though he was not the first to set foot on the American continent, and Copernicus by his studies and his book on the revolution of the planets crystallized the idea, which had been suggested long before his time, that the sun and not the earth is the center of the solar system.

But as Columbus did not perfect his discovery without the aid of contemporaries and successors, so Copernicus left his theory in an imperfect form, to be completed by the genius of Kepler and later of Newton.

Whoever has watched, and will continue to watch during the remainder of this Winter, the movements of the planets Venus and Jupiter will have seen for himself an example of what puzzled all the ancient astronomers, and bothered Copernicus himself to the end of his days.

Curious Motions.

On November 26, Venus and Jupiter were in conjunction in the sunset heavens, and since then, up to the time of this writing (in the first half of December), they have continued to make a beautiful celestial spectacle. But their relative motions have been, and will hereafter be, very curious.

Two days after the conjunction in November Venus ceased to move eastward with reference to the sun, while Jupiter, gradually parting from his brilliant sister, seemed steadily to approach the sun. Thus they have slowly separated.

But after January 16, Venus will turn her track and seem to pursue Jupiter sunwards. On January 25, Jupiter will be in conjunction with the sun, afterward entering the morning sky. On February 8, Venus in turn will be in apparent pursuit of her great brother.

Ten days later she will overtake him and pass him in the skies of early dawn. But they will not get very widely apart, for early in March they will begin to draw together again, and on March 22 another conjunction will occur between them.

Now, how explain these backward and forward and apparently contradictory motions? The ancient astronomers, starting with the assumption that the sun and all the other bodies revolved around the earth, had to account for the curious apparent motions of Venus and the other planets as well by an exceedingly complicated system of "epicycles," which there is no room here to describe.

Copernicus, starting with the opposite hypothesis—viz., that the sun is the center of motion for the earth as well as for all the planets—got rid of most of the imaginary epicycles, though he did not get so far as to be able to throw them all into the discard, and it was only after Kepler discovered the elliptical form of the planetary orbits that the real proof of the truth of the heliocentric system stood forth.

The curious relative motions of the planets Jupiter and Venus are a result of the combination of their actual motions in their orbits together with the motion of the earth in its orbit. Jupiter is five times as far from the sun as the earth is, and consequently its motion in its orbit is relatively slow.

Venus is millions of miles nearer the sun than the earth is, and consequently travels faster. Jupiter's orbital motion is about eight miles per second, the earth's about eighteen and a half miles, Venus' about twenty-two miles.

Moreover, as they travel around the sun their directions of motion with reference to one another are continually changing, just as occurs with athletes running around a common centre, each in a separate ring, the rings being situated at different distances from the centre.

Different Speeds.

Let them also travel at different speeds, according to their distances from the centre, and let the one running in the middle ring keep his eyes on the others and he will behold apparent reversals of motion similar to what we, looking out from the moving earth, witness among the revolving planets.

And to the runner a post placed at the common centre of all the tracks would appear to run around opposite to him, but keeping step with him, just as the sun appears to run annually around the sky, keeping step with the earth.

HOW IT IS YOU CANNOT BE A REAL PHILANTHROPIST

You want to be a philanthropist if it does not cost you any personal effort.

You are willing to give of your money and possessions to those who are less fortunate if it can be arranged so that you do not come in personal contact with the sick or unfortunate.

It really hurts your feeling to hear about the troubles of others.

You never could stand "to see blood" and you always look the other way when you see a deformity, because it pains your sensitive nature.

A mere selfish wish to avoid anything unpleasant is really your excuse for letting some one else do your charitable acts.

Do you know that a sympathetic smile, a kind word, a cool hand on a burning brow, if that is all you can do, is worth far more than your dollars?
